

Happy New Year Weather Guessers!

I volunteered to research some cruise information for Reunion 45 in 2019. I'm looking for feedback as to what type of cruise you'd like me to pursue, where to sail out of, and when you think would be a good time. I have listed several cruise lines, departure ports, lengths, ports of call, and estimated prices. Once we have an agreed upon date range, cruise, rough number of attendees, and length; our travel agent will work to get us the best deal. The Caribbean cruises listed are all in April/May in keeping with our normal reunion schedule. Obviously, we may want to change the dates of an Alaskan Cruise, if that's what we agree on, to July or August and taking a Caribbean in the summer or fall may not be advisable. The prices quoted are generic for the months listed which may be higher than the average based on high demand. Starting prices are also inside staterooms, but you'll be able to reserve balcony or other upgraded rooms once we settle on a cruise. It is very likely that you would have to reserve your stateroom much earlier than we normally do to get a decent group rate. Please let me know your thoughts or suggestions.
