WEASEL WORDS

(you may have seen these used now and then)

Weasel words are vague references to an anonymous authority such as “science”, “experts” or “evidence-based” in order to present your own opinion. For example, “Our Evidence-Based approach is proven to work”. Note: there is no reference to this evidence-based “proof”.

STUDENT SPEAKS OUT

Check out following, she does a great job concerning American and changing values.

WISCONSIN

Would like to commend Dennis Pauly for his super effort in bringing to HRC, NWSA and even the NWS’ attention, the need for collection of the memories, the equipment and the history of what use to be in the Weather World. The Wisconsin is an ongoing project. We hope others will join with Dennis and HRC in helping the Nauticus/Wisconsin museum. NWSA has posted articles, and information can be found on the Facebook AG site.

REALIZATION OF PROFACY

160+/- years ago President Lincoln said; “if this country is every demoralized, it will come from trying to live without work.” Maybe we should place his name beside that of Nostradamus.
